50. Briefly highlight the contributions of the department in generating new knowledge, basic or applied.

The Department of Law cherishes flamboyant legacy of contribution in developing law, especially constitutional law, international law, environmental law and labour law. Equal credit is given to the Department in recognizing and publishing the application of jurisprudence in Indian legal system. Books written by the faculty members, the annual journal, Ph.D. thesis and dissertations in LL.M. are the ever perennial attempts in the direction of studying the current law in the present society, evaluating the relevance of particular law in contemporary times and suggesting new law in order to meet challenges posed by the progressive society. The latest books and articles written by the faculty members focus on the burning and most relevant issues including plight of construction labour, rights of women, environmental issues, intellectual property rights, cyber law, maritime law etc. The faculty members supervising the Ph.D. thesis of research scholars inspire and make them work industriously so that the research work may contribute in the generation of some fresh and relevant ideas in law.

52. Future plans of the department.

The Department of Law treasures a jubilant history of its achievements and it is heading on the path of progress. It is worthy to mention here that in the year 2007 LL.M. in Human Rights and Value was started by the Department. However, progress and success is a continuous process and the Department has foresighted many plans not only to compete with the National Law Universities but also to make it parallel to international standards.

The Department has been publishing annually Journal of Legal Studies for last fifty three years and it is one of the oldest research journals in the country as well. The Department is going to make the journal bi-annual. The Department desires to have a Professor Emeritus and a Visiting Fellow. The Department is anxious to sign MOU with foreign universities so as to begin student-exchange programme because in the era of globalisation, students must have knowledge of other legal systems as well. As cyber law is one of the most sought for specialisation in LL.M., the Department is planning to start LL.M. in Cyber Law branch as well. In the era of electronic means of knowledge-resources, the Department is going to subscribe SCC-online in order to facilitate study and research.
